Dr. Ron Newman

Following three years of clinical and research training program in "inflammatory Eye Conditions" at the Boston Harvard university program under the mentoring of Prof C.S. Foster I followed twenty-five years of clinical experience in Israel. For most of my career I had devoted my time to both "patient care" and executive pharmaceutical industry roles. In the last years, I was leading the global medical affair group at Teva Pharmaceutical Ltd between 2002 and 2011, following that I became the clinical lead for the "Ophthalmology Therapeutic Area" at the global R&D group at Teva. Since 1995 I had been a founder and a co-chairperson of the International Symposium of Ocular Pharmacology" (ISOPT Clinical). At present I am leaving Teva and am consulting pharma companies developing products for Ophthalmology
